DETAILED ACTION

Restriction/election

- 1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
- I. Claims 1-2, drawn to a method for cloning a plant promoter, classified in class435, subclass 468.
- II. Claims 3-6, drawn to a method for controlling the morphology of a plant, classified in class 435, subclass 410.
- III. Claims 7-12, drawn to a method for producing a recombinant protein, classified in class 435, subclass 69.1.
- 2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
- a. Group I is independent and distinct from each of Groups II-III because the method for cloning a plant promoter is materially different from the method for controlling the morphology of a plant of Group II, is materially different from the method for producing a recombinant protein of Group III. Additionally, the method steps involved in cloning a plant promoter is not needed for the method of controlling the morphology of a plant of Group II or for the method of producing a recombinant protein of Group III. Neither any of the methods in Groups II-III are needed to practice the method of cloning a plant promoter of Group I.
- b. Group II is independent and distinct from each of Groups I and III because the method for cloning a plant promoter can be used in materially different processes such as site directed mutagenesis etc., and the method of producing a recombinant protein of Group III can be used in materially different processes such as immuno blotting or western hybridization, antibody production assays.

Art Unit: 1656

c. The method of recombinant protein of Group III is independent and distinct from Groups II and I because the method of cloning of Group I can be used in screening cDNA libraries, southern hybridization assays and the method of controlling the morphology of a plant of Group II can be used in gene expression assays.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter and the search for one group is not required for any other group, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(I).
